Music Futures youth programs of the Snohomish County Music Project's (SCMP) have a Music Therapy Initiative: The purpose is to use the power of music to heal and affect behavior through collaborations with the Snohomish County Courts, schools, and local health and human service organizations.

This youth program will include learning new coping skills and behaviors for healthy living. Goals of stress relief and improved quality of life will help alleviate health-related issues. Following the "Good Lives" model (if you feel good about yourself, you are more likely to do good things) youth will engage in music making in a variety of ways (song writing, creating song histories, group drumming improvisation work, collaborative music making and instruction on guitar by community musicians, and jam sessions).

Parents are requested to attend with youth participants on the first day of each new session cycle for a one hour workshop orientation and reception.
